History of the Saddle.
In the earlier ages the Romans used neither saddles nor stirrups. Saddles were in use in the Third century, and are mentioned as made of leather in 804, and were known in England about 800. Stirrups were not known before the Fifth century, and not in general use before the Twelfth. Saddle for ladies were introduced by Anne, queen of Richard II. in 1388.

Effect of Habit on Some People.
A West Dallas widow says that the only reason why she would ever take another husband is because it is so hard to stop marrying when once begun.

KEEP SUITABLE FARM ACCOUNTS

Farming Is a Profession and Must Be Conducted in a Businesslike Manner

HELPS CREDIT AT THE BANK

Once the Principles of Bookkeeping
Are Understood a Simple System
Can Be Developed to Meet the Farmer's Needs.

Farmer Jones desired to negotiate a loan at his local bank.

"Just what is your financial condition?" the banker asked him.

"Why," said Jones, "I own a house and land, and a couple of horses and some cows and live stock, and an orchard and—"

"Have you a detailed inventory showing the value of these things?" the banker interrupted him.

"No-o," the farmer replied. "I haven't time to bother keeping books."

"Good gracious, man!" exclaimed the banker, "anyone can keep books. The way the thing's worked out nowadays it doesn't require more than five minutes' work a day. Then when you come here for a loan you could produce a sheet of paper and say, 'Here's what I've got, here's what I owe, and here's what I'd have in cash if I sold out tomorrow.' As it is, I'm afraid I can't let you have the money until I have this information."

This conversation takes place in hundreds of towns every day, according to specialists of the office of farm management and farm economics, United States department of agriculture. Of course farmers are very busy men. They haven't the time to study complicated accounting methods. But, according to the federal specialists, once the principles of bookkeeping are understood and all farm conditions studied, a simple system of bookkeeping can be developed to meet the farmer's needs.

Show Assets and Liabilities.

The foundation of any set of books is an inventory showing the farmer's assets and liabilities. The assets include real estate, live stock, machinery and tools, produce, feed and supplies, cash on hand and in bank, and accounts receivable at the date the inventory is taken. Each item under these headings should be listed separately. Real estate should be valued at what it can be sold for under normal conditions; live stock, feed and farm produce at market prices, less cost of marketing; farm supplies at cost; machinery and tools at a price allowing for annual depreciation. The liabilities should include mortgages, notes and accounts payable. The sum of the liabilities deducted from the total assets will show the farmer's net worth.

Classification of Accounts.

While an inventory is generally the first thing a banker asks for when making a loan he also wants to know the sources of income. By going just a little further the farmer can keep records that will enable him to know his profits and losses. This requires a classification of accounts in which certain principles should be followed. The precise classification to be used is determined by the prevailing conditions on the farm in question.

Full details regarding the various phases of farm bookkeeping are contained in Farmers' Bulletin 511, "Farm Bookkeeping;" Farmers' Bulletin 572, "A System of Farm Cost Accounting," and Farmers' Bulletin 782, "The Use of a Diary for Farm Accounts." These bulletins can be had upon request of the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

APPLICATION OF PHOSPHATE

On Poorly Managed Farms a Mixed Fertilizer Can Undoubtedly Be Used With Profit.

"Knowing that corn receives much benefit and usually follows clover on all managed farms, a logical investment," says Prof. Firman E. Bear of the soils department of the Ohio State university, "is in a larger application of phosphate." On farms that have been poorly managed, a mixed fertilizer can undoubtedly be used with profit. He says that until such a time as the price of potash is materially reduced it would appear that it is

LEGION AND LABOR QUESTION

Position of National Body, Adopted at Cleveland Meeting, Made Clear in Bulletin.

A clear and well-defined exposition of the official attitude of the American Legion toward organized labor is contained in a bulletin sent out by national headquarters of the Legion in Indianapolis, setting forth the statement on the question issued by Past National Commander D'Olier, which was adopted by the national convention as the Legion's platform in industrial difficulties. The statement follows:

"The attitude of the Legion toward organized labor is the same as its attitude toward all groups of American citizens who are interested in a square deal for all in the maintenance of law and order, and the protection of the institutions handed down to us by our forefathers. In any controversy between capital and labor, the interest of the American Legion is confined to that of the maintenance of law and order, and, without taking part on either side, in case a situation should arise where life and property are endangered, it is the duty of members of the Legion to perform their full duty as citizens according to their own conscience and understanding.

"In such a contingency it is the Legion man's duty to assist in the maintenance of law and order by acting as an individual and offering his services to the duly constituted authorities for the maintenance of law and order. There is nothing to prevent the individual member of the Legion as an individual from taking either side in such a controversy for the Legion, as an organization will not do so."

KEEPS EYE ON LEGION MONEY

Robert H. Tyndall is Reappointed National Treasurer by the National Executive Committee.

The handling of the finances of the American Legion will continue to be directed by Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer, who was reappointed to the position by the national executive committee. Mr. Tyndall is a native of Indianapolis, and during the war served as colonel of the One Hundred and Fifteenth Field Artillery, Forty-second ("Rainbow") division. He was in command of the regiment throughout the war and was with the army of occupation in Germany until April, 1917. Previous to his service in the World war Mr. Tyndall had long been interested in military affairs. He enlisted in Battery A of the Indiana National Guard in October, 1897. The battery was mustered into the Twenty-seventh Indiana Volunteer Battery on May 10, 1898, becoming a part of the expeditionary forces in Porto Rico during August and September of that year. In 1900 he enlisted in the reorganized Indiana National Guard and served as corporal, sergeant, lieutenant, and captain of Battery A until 1913, when he was promoted to major of the First Battalion, Indiana Field Artillery. He served on the Mexican border from July, 1916 to January, 1917, and received the rank of colonel in April, 1917.

ASKS FOR MILITARY ESCORTS

Philadelphia County Committee Appeals to President Wilson to Provide Firing Squads.

Following advice from the adjutant general of the army to the effect that it is impracticable for the War department, without a special appropriation for transportation expenses, to provide military escorts for the burial of Philadelphia of soldier dead whose bodies are being returned from overseas, the Philadelphia county committee of the Legion has appealed to President Wilson to provide at least two firing squads for this purpose from Camp Dix or through the Frankford arsenal, at Philadelphia.

"The American Legion representatives," the letter reads, "were not satisfied with the excuse offered by the adjutant general of the army for refusing to assist in meeting this emergency. The bodies of soldier dead of the A. E. F. are being returned to Philadelphia daily, and as many as five requests a day are being received by the American Legion. The Legion, through its representatives in the county organization, took the position that it cannot avoid its responsibility to honor these men who gave their lives for their country.

"The United States army is now recruited to a strength of 300,000. It was the unanimous opinion among the Legion representatives of the 78 posts in this county, that as commander in chief of the United States army, you might consider it a privilege to assign to Philadelphia 18 men who might serve as military escorts, thus assisting the American Legion in performing a paramount patriotic duty."

The letter was signed by Romulo C. Hassrick, secretary of the committee.

"I Feel as 'Tho' I Could Not Drag Thru the Day's Work"

the complaint of many a woman in the household, office or factory. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, tired, weak and dragged-down by weeks of nervousness, black circles and puffy cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce.

Changed, too, she looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol.

Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid, or send Dr. Pierce, at Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N.Y., 10 cts. for trial package. After taking this well-known remedy you will feel strong and healthy. Such a change in feelings, too—there's sparkle in the eyes, a rose tint in the cheeks, for one has slackened blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in the step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health—but when she is pallid, dull-eyed, languid, she has no imagination, nor does she appeal to any man.

Cards in Ancient Pack.

Ball House Furniture for a Girl's Christmas

By DOROTHY PERKINS

(Copyright by A. Neely Hall)

This is one of the most unique puzzle blocks I have ever seen, and it makes a set of furniture that any girl would be glad to own for her doll house. Show the seven pieces of furniture stand in Figs. 1 to 7 upon a table, and tell a friend to fit them together so as to form a symmetrical block of the dimensions shown in Fig. 8, and he will think that you are joking. It can be done, because the pieces were cut out of a block of the size shown. By comparing the letters which I have placed upon the pieces of furniture, with the letters upon the block in Fig. 9, you will see how the pieces fit together. It is best to mark out the pieces exactly as they are indicated upon the block in Fig. 9, before starting to cut.

To save confusion only one cut is shown upon Figs. 11 and 12, in the order in which it should be made.

A small bracket saw, or what you probably know as a hand scroll-saw, should be used for cutting out the pieces, because a very fine blade is necessary. The block should be of white pine, free from knots and cracks. Cut it to the dimensions shown in Fig. 8, and plane its surfaces straight and smooth; then upon the two face and two side surfaces, mark off the lines on which to cut. The corners are shown rounded because it is necessary to cut them that way in order to turn the corner with the saw blade.

The first piece to cut out is the table (Fig. 1); this is marked A in Figs. 9 and 10. When you have removed this piece from the two ends and one side of the block, a block like that shown in Fig. 11 will remain.

The next step is to separate the remaining block into two equal parts by sawing along the heavy lines shown in Fig. 11 (Fig. 12). This pair of blocks, you will see by Figs. 2 and 5, are to form the two chairs, after more cutting has been done. The block C, (Figs. 3 and 6), which becomes a footstool, must be saved out of each chair base, as indicated in Figs. 13 and 14. Then when this cutting has been done, block D must be cut out of the remaining portion of each chair base (Figs. 13 and 15), for tabourets (Figs. 4 and 7).

Unless you have done the marking and sawing very accurately, you will find it impossible to interlock the pieces except when placed in the positions they originally occupied. This will make a much better puzzle—harder to assemble the pieces.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Well-known local druggist says everybody is using old time recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre,
or when it fades, turns gray, dull, and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

A Romance In Colors

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"Something of a mystery, your new boarder, isn't he?" queried Mrs. Doty of her neighbor at the nearest farm place to her own home.

"Oh, I think not," was the smiling reply of the young matron, Mrs. Ransom, who was the mother of two children whom this new boarder had all but adopted so far as kindness and liberality were concerned. "On the contrary Mr. Wharton is bluff, free and open, and acts like a man glad to get out in the country where he can do just as he pleases. No, indeed, not at all mysterious, but I can say queer."

"In what way, now?" urged Mrs.
Doty, who was a confirmed gossip.
"Well, he spends half of his time with the children, romps with them, takes them on long auto rides, buys them all kinds of toys and makes kites for them; in fact he seems extraordinarily fond of juvenile company."

"Going to stay long with you?"
"A week or two vacation he told me when he first came," replied Mrs. Ransom. "But it has run into his third week, and he shows no signs of going as yet."

The inquisitive Mrs. Doty having dis-appointedly exhausted the theme under discussion, chose a new subject challenging her inquisitiveness.

"Who are the folks who have taken the Gale place?" she inquired.

"Now, there may be a mystery," spoke Mrs. Ransom sprightly. "They are new people and keep closely to themselves—a sour-visaged old man, his spinster sister, and, they say, a niece. I haven't seen the girl close at hand, for, you know, the Gale place is surrounded by that high-spiked brick wall, but a glimpse now and then from our bay window shows that this niece is graceful, and, I think, pretty. She never leaves the grounds, and one of the other of the man and woman is with her whenever she is in the garden."

Just then there sounded out echoes of joyous, excited shouts and, pointing through the open window space, Mrs.
Ransom said: "There is Mr. Wharton now," and the neighbor peered curiously at the new boarder.

Mrs. Ransom had reason to especially notice this fact, for the day previous he had presented one of the children with a large rubber ball tastefully decorated with alternate red and blue stripes. In a game of toss and catch he had sent it spinning over the brick wall of the Gale place, and that was the last seen of it, and he consoled the little lad to whom he had presented it with a promise to place it.

That night at dusk Mr. Wharton had an animated juvenile escort as he sent up the red and blue kite with a red and blue lantern attached to its tail.
As he guided it aloft the string broke,
and it, too, fell within the extensive grounds of the Gale place.

"And he did it a-purpose," declared little Benny to his mother later on. "I saw him snap the string."

It was two days later that the man who had taken the Gale place came over to the Ransom home and arranged for a regular supply of fresh eggs, butter and milk. Their delivery became the task of little Benny. The second evening of this function he started his mother and very much interested Mr. Wharton by handing the latter a folded note.

"The pretty girl over there gave me the letter," said Benny, "and half a dollar not to tell anything about it.
She said I was to give the letter to the red and blue man and forget all about it."

"That's me, and here's a dollar to help you forget it, Benny," observed
Mr. Wharton, and he hastily perused the note and went at once to his room, chuckling riotously.

"Mrs. Doty was right—there is a mystery here!" soliloquized the puzzled
Mrs. Ransom.

Mr. Wharton was gone into the village all that evening and Mrs. Ransom went to bed after his return to be awake trying to solve the enigma of his queer actions. She dozed, to be awakened by a soft chugging sound coming apparently from the rear of the house, and hastened to a window that overlooked the back garden.

There stood an automobile, red and blue, and Mr. Wharton was just helping a young lady into it, when the driver drew into his arms and kissed rapturously. Away went the machine.
Mr. Wharton, all smiles, waving his hand after its inmates suggested a fatherly blessing.

Next morning, when Mrs. Ransom came downstairs she found her boarder awaiting her, his suitcase at his side.

"You dear little woman," he said.
"I'm leaving a neat little bonus in addition to my board money, as I have got to get back to business."

"And the young lady, sir, and the young man and the automobile?" stuttered Mrs. Ransom.

"Oh! you saw the elopement, eh?
Well, my son was the young man, with the poor, persecuted victim of relatives interested in her fortune.
Man and wife by this time. You see I had to use Don's favorite college colors, with which Lucia was familiar, to attract her attention and get a note to her. You like a romance, don't you? Well, you have been an indirect agent in making two loving souls happy!"

Gifts for Baby

Christmas brings to the baby many dainty gifts. A pillow of wash silk and a little jacket of pink flannel are shown in the picture above, both of them glorified by trimming of narrow satin ribbon. A small oblong pillow of down is provided with a silk cover, having loops of ribbon set about the edge. A quilling of satin ribbon finishes the edges of the jacket.

Furbelows for Maids

Many a fair maid will rejoice in such new and smart furbelows of ribbon as are pictured here, when Christmas brings her remembrances. Here is a collar, vestee and girdle with a bag to match that are irresistible. This garment for the waist is made of striped ribbon—showing the glowing colors in Roman stripes.
The girdle is knotted at the left side and hangs in two pointed ends.
The bag is drawn up and suspended by narrow satin ribbon, has a silk ornament, like those on the collar, at the bottom.

Gifts Suited to Everyone

A handkerchief or a tie case, or a pair of ribbon-covered shoe-trees make gifts suited to either men or women.
The tie case pictured is a length of ribbon folded envelope fashion and bound with gold braid. The handkerchief case employs narrow satin ribbon joined by fancy braid. Satin ribbon is shirred over the shoe-trees.

Sachets As Gifts

Among little gifts, that always please dainty women, are sachets. A series of gayly colored satin bags, tied with narrow ribbons and pinned to a wider band with tiny safety pins, make a gift worth while, each bag ready to be transferred to the clothing. Another sachet is heart-shaped, edged with narrow ribbon frills and three little bags are surmounted by a tiny doll.

A Letter From Santa Clause To the Good Little Folks in Your House

Every day this live long year I have been hard at it making toys for little tots, playthings for the kiddies, dolls for the girls.

And every time that I made something extra nice I have set it one side for you.

Now that Christmas morning is only a few weeks away, I would like to have you see what I have just for your own self.

Ask father or mother to bring you down to LEON-ARDSON'S, where I have put all the best of my Christmas things, so that they will be handy for Xmas eve.

Look them all over and write me a little letter, telling me just which things you like best and give your letter to father or mother to send to me, or mail it yourself in the mail box in Leonardson's toy department, so that I will know just what to bring you that will please you most.

And now, good-bye till Christmas morning.

Your best of friends,

D'ANNUNZIO DEFIES THE ITALIAN ARMY

ITALIAN FLEET DRAWS NEAR STRONGHOLD OF NOTED POET ENCIRCLING HIS DEFENDERS

ITALIAN GENERAL TOLD TO PRESS
ATTACK AND HIS MEN WILL BE GIVEN A WARM RECEPTION

NO OUTLOOK FOR AN ARGUMENT

Rome, Italy, Dec. 3.—Gabriel D'Annunzio today sent a note of defiance to General Cavaglia, commander of the Italian forces surrounding Fiume. Cavaglia has demanded that D'Annunzio evacuate Arb and Viglia in accordance with the Rapallo treaty.

"I do not recognize your authority," D'Annunzio replied. "I shall continue to hold the island. I want you to send men to dislodge my brave legionnaires. Your men will receive a warm reception."

The note was sent while the army and navy were closing in on the island. A report from Pola today said armed men seized a steamship with supplies at Cherso and diverted it to Fiume.

Paris, Dec. 3.—"The die is cast. The task is about to be accomplished. Blood is going to flow. Fiume citizens about to die, send their last greetings to their country for which they are making their last sacrifice."

"If I am struck at the throat I will find strength to spit out the blood and shout my last cry 'Long Live Italy.'"

With the above proclamation launched to the world Gabriel D'Annunzio announced that a state of war with the Roman government will automatically start today, December 3, at mid-day.

Following the proclamation the minister of war cancelled his trip to Geneva, and will remain permanently at the war office in Rome.

The situation is considered most serious inasmuch as civil war is impending.

All citizens of Fiume including women under 40 are mobilized in men's clothing.

A regiment of regulars sent by the government to attack Fiume reported sick in a body rather than fight their countrymen.

Rome, Dec. 3.—Italian troops continued to encircle Fiume today but there was no report of hostilities. The headquarters of Gabrielle D'Annunzio was quiet. There were reports that he had decided to get a peaceful settlement with the government. A conflicting report largely discredited was that the poet commander hopes to head a combined Albanian-Montenegrin alliance in opposition to the Jugo-Slavs and Italians. An impressive display of the Italian army and navy was believed to have been responsible for the quiet which prevailed in Fiume today. Troops prevented truck service to D'Annunzio's troops and the fleet prevented ships from bringing supplies to D'Annunzio. Many persons hoped that the poet would yield to the terms of the Rapallo treaty.

ANOTHER BOND ROBBERY

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 3.—The American Express Company today made public the theft of between $60,000 and $100,000 in bonds from consignments from Washington, D. C., to their representatives here.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 3.—Bandits looted mail sacks on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train from Aberdeen to Minneapolis early today, according to word received here. The amount of the loot has not been determined. The bandits entered the mail car near Hopkins, 18 miles west of Minneapolis, and left the train as it entered Minneapolis. They eluded the pursuers. Railway mail service officers declared the loss would not exceed $10,000.

MRS. McSWINEY TO ARRIVE HERE TOMORROW

New York, Dec. 3.—The reception for Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, was delayed today until the arrival of the White Star liner Celtic aboard which Mrs. MacSwiney is sailing to New York. It will arrive in quarantine at 5 p. m. and dock at 10 a. m. tomorrow, according to officials of the White Star line.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—The message of Paul Hymans, president of the League of Nations assembly, in reply to President Wilson's acceptance of the invitation to mediate between the Turkish nationalists and Armenia was received at the White House today. Secretary Tumulty at once took the reply to President Wilson.

STILL TIME TO ENROLL

The Red Cross campaign for membership will be open until Christmas. Anyone not having joined should take out a membership at Red Cross headquarters, Leitzinger Bros. store or Kurtz Bros. All of the banks will have someone to receive memberships. If you are from out of town the membership will be credited to the home town.

GETTING CLOSE HOME

Yesterday a fellow in Clearfield read an article in The Progress headed "Make Christmas Worth While." He agreed with everything we said about making Christmas worth while but was ignorant of the workings of that branch of Red Cross work which is known as the anti-Tuberculosis Branch. He wanted to know why he should buy stamps when the money was being sent away from home. He is laboring under a delusion.

Here are the facts: Eighty per cent of all the money we put into these stamps is given right back to the people here who are voluntarily looking after the anti-tuberculosis work and who would just like to have this fellow listen to the story of some of these workers who seen conditions as they really are. Some of these conditions have been described to the writer but they cannot be published because their work is of a confidential and private nature so far as the sufferers are concerned. It is sufficient to know there are 660 persons in the Crozer Sanatorium, most of them children, and that hundreds of them are from this part of the state.

Two hundred thousand seals are here. Buy them and be a real cheer bringer on Christmas.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS DECLARE NO RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR FARMERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—Government relief from the present condition confronting farmers is impossible. Secretary of the Treasury Houston today told the House and Senate agricultural committee. Houston was the first witness to be heard before the joint session of the committee which is making belief for the farmer who has been hit by the rapidly falling prices of their products. At the same time the secretary predicted a drop in retail prices soon. He said retail dealers were looking out against lower prices but would be forced to lower their prices very soon. "I do not know of a feasible plan in sight," he said, "to raise the price of farm products at the present time." Houston said he had been advised by the farmers while he was secretary of agriculture that a drop in prices would come and urged the farmers to prepare for it. He denied emphatically that the farmers were suffering from lack of credit.

HARDING SHIP DELAYED BY WINDS WILL ARRIVE AT NORFOLK SATURDAY

Aboard the steamer Pastores, (by wireless).—A heavy high wind so delayed the progress today of the steamer Pastores on which President-elect Harding is going to Norfolk, that it is believed she will not reach her destination before Saturday afternoon. The president-elect's vacation ended when he was 300 miles from shore today. He retired to his cabin and set to work on writing his speech to be delivered at Norfolk.

BLOOM-PHILLIPS

Ernest E. Bloom and Maude Phillips, both of Pike township, residing just beyond the Boro limits of Curwensville were united in marriage at Trinity church parsonage last evening, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Hartman using the ring ceremony of the Methodist ritual in tying the nuptial knot.

Ulster Volunteers, have mostly been absorbed by Sinn Fein and constitute the "Irish Republican Army." These again are a formidable organization as many have seen war with the 35th Nationalist Division in France. Those without war experience have been drilling and training for four years and if they could only obtain some artillery, there can be no doubt that an open rising would follow immediately. All the Nationalists, however, have not gone over to Sinn Fein.

So far the Ulster Volunteers are not officially in arms, but the numerous outbreaks in Belfast, Londonderry and other parts of Ulster prove that they are ready to spring to arms at once.

'TIS A SAD, SAD STORY BUT IT MUST BE TOLD

If your husband, son, brother or sweetheart happens to belong to the Merrill Office camp and grouped too much visitors to your friends, your relatives or the hospital for we are sorry to relate that instead of that camp getting four deer on the first day of the season they were skunked just as were the rest of the rest of them. That story about them getting four was evidently meant for last year and the letter just reached Clearfield.

There are very few reports coming from the camp today. Most of the hunters kept in the high and dry yesterday. Today the weather is more favorable and no doubt the killings will be numerous today.

The Amos Camp report a buck killed on the first day.

Goheen spared this morning for the first time this season when Dean Reed chased a crippled buck out of the Shaw thicket with his Bush Gun. The frightened old buck made for the first shelter he saw and landed head on in the stable just across the road from the camp. Fred Loney was doing his turn as chamber maid to the live stock and when he saw the hysterical buck come flying into the stall he sank the three-pronged pitch fork into its side, at a vital part.

The End Of A Perfect Day

INTEREST RENEWED IN DRIVE FOR HOSPITAL FUND

Reports from various districts in Clearfield county received this week in response to the request of the hospital campaign directors that the campaign be revived indicate that their decision to extend the campaign was the right procedure. Things are beginning to hum again around hospital headquarters and the various chairmen of the outlying districts are taking up the work with renewed vigor.

Mrs. Harry Burnette of Pine Grove, Lawrence township, called this week with $160 in cash and pledges and reports that there will be more to be reported from that district.

W. K. Wrigley, chairman at Curwensville made a wonderful report. Curwensville went over the top handsomely as she can always be depended upon to do. The sum total of cash and pledges reported by Mr. Wrigley is $10.75. The campaign was in able hands in our sister city.

Mr. Shillingford, chairman at Oriskany was been working on the drive up there and his efforts are beginning to bear fruit. He has reported a total of $2032 and of course is not yet through.

Houtzdale has considerable work to do yet but she is at it. A great many subscriptions have been procured and those who have subscribed are glad that they did so. Many names were published from Houtzdale in a recent publication but Chairman John B. McGrath has found twenty-four names omitted and forwarded them to headquarters. They will be published, with others, on page six of The Progress tomorrow.

One of the many worth while subscriptions made to the campaign which has not yet been acknowledged in the published lists is that of A. E. Woolridge of Woodland. His subscription is for One Thousand Dollars. It will do much to send the Bradford Township quota up to the goal.

THE BLACK AND TANS

By WEBB MILLER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Nov. 22.—By Mail.—Much has been heard of the "Black and Tans" in the chaotic war of assassinations, ambushes and reprisals in Ireland, but probably few people abroad have much information as to who and what these men are.

The official title of the corps is the Auxiliary Division of the Royal Irish Constabulary and they were organized when the supply of recruits for the R. I. C. began to fail. The R. I. C., long famous as one of the most efficient bodies of semi-military police in the world, was formerly exclusively composed of Irishmen. Men of magnificent physique, and superior intelligence, they ranked much higher than the ordinary policeman, and in the better-class Irish farmer families it was a subject for pride that they had a son in the R. I. C.

Equally efficient as cavalry or infantry, and armed with swords, rifles, bayonet, revolvers, clubs and handgrenades, the R. I. C. rarely had much trouble with the most turbulent Irish mobs. Only on rare occasions did they need any other weapon than their clubs, and a couple of these hardy horsemen would break up an ugly mob of contestants without doing more damage than racking a head or two. And the people thus clubbed bore no malice; in fact the R. I. C. were generally well-liked. Knowing that they could never stir up much bitterness against this formidable force, the Sinn Fein extremists set themselves to breaking it up by persuasion, intimidation and finally assassination. Some, they reasoned with on patriotic grounds, and secured a few resignations, while a strenuous propaganda campaign, coupled with actual intimidation and boycotting, prevented many young men joining who would otherwise have done so. The recent open campaign of assassination naturally weakened the morale of the force, especially as a boycott was rigidly enforced against the wives, relatives and known friends of the members of the R. I. C.

With the supply of recruits cut off, the British authorities realized that bold steps had to be taken, especially as there was no time to train imported recruits to R. I. C. standards. They accordingly formed the Auxiliary Division and particularly appealed to English ex-officers and soldiers well-trained in the use of arms, scouting, and already disciplined. The late war left many enterprising, restless and reckless young men more or less on their beam ends, and these readily jumped at the prospect of more "excitement" with the attractive and unusually high pay of one pound a day, with uniform, equipment and all found. The authorities were able to take their pick from thousands of volunteers and probably the world has never seen a more formidable body of war-wise dare-devils enlisted. Naturally it was these men who, feeling themselves scouting in an enemy country and carrying their lives in their hands were responsible for most of the reprisals.

The nick-name "Black and Tans" was given them in derision, when the authorities, not being quite sure how they were going to uniform them, and not having sufficient R. I. C. uniforms in stock, fitted them out partly in the dark green (almost black) of the parent corps and partly in ordinary army khaki. The sneer that these half-black-half-brown-clad men resembled the snappy little black-and-tan terrier was soon stifled and "Black and Tan" is now a name of terror. Mostly, however, the "Black and Tans" wear ordinary officer's khaki uniform, without rank badges, except for the black accoutrements and bandoliers of the R. I. C. and lately a Scotch "bonnet" with a white St. Andrews cross as badge, instead of the regulation cap.

Other forces in Ireland, apart from the regular British troops, are the Ulster Volunteers, a force formed by the Unionist leader Sir Edward Carson in 1913 to resist the passage of Home Rule. This again is a decidedly dangerous army, numbering some 150,000 men, many of whom are well-trained having served in the recent war. The 36th Ulster Division in France was chiefly recruited from Carson's Ulster volunteers.

The Irish Nationalist Volunteers, originally formed as a reply to the

OIL IS KING

It is not generally recognized that one cause of Mexican distrust and fear of the United States is our dependence on that country for an adequate supply of oil. In 1919 we imported 52,748,547 barrels of oil from Mexico and our importations for 1920 will far exceed even that vast amount. The domestic supply of petroleum is no longer equal to the demand, and if we were compelled to depend on it the price would at once soar sky high and that proposition for the annexation of northern Mexico, now only discussed privately by interested persons, would no doubt be heard in the open. For an adequate supply of oil is imperative. It is asserted that at the present rate we are likely to use up all our oil resources in 17 years, and obviously we must either take steps toward a great reduction in consumption or arrange to import vast quantities.

It seems that we have not been awake where this important matter is concerned, while the British have as usual been fore-handed. Of late we have refused to have anything to do with the League of Nations, for example, and have refused every mandate offered us. Great Britain, on the other hand, has promptly accepted every mandate proposed, and thus secured control over, or a determining influence in connection with, a number of oil producing regions in addition to those already acquired. The southerners used to call cotton king, and with reason, but under present conditions there is no product that in its kingdom based on industrial need can equal the kingdom of oil. The notion that can lead captive the largest string of oil fields in the best armed industrially and in a military sense. Our State Department is said to be awakened, but the difficulty is that other nations have got ahead and staked out all the claims in sight.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR CHRISTMAS

For generations Thanksgiving was a New England rather than an American institution. Only within comparatively recent times has the day been universally observed in this country, but in New England it is almost as old as the landing from the Mayflower. It is a curiously interesting fact that the early New Englanders invented Thanksgiving day as a substitute for Christmas. The Puritans refused to "observe" the birthday of the Lord Jesus Christ because in England it had become a day of too much sporting, roystering and indulgence in dissipation. Christmas having become too "merry" to suit their taste, they turned against Charles himself, not only refusing to celebrate it but punishing those who did. The man who recognized the 26th of December by stopping work was "liable to discipline or a penalty."

Though the greatest day of the year from the earliest times in Virginia and "kindly regarded" in New York and Pennsylvania, Christmas was generally ignored in New England. Living residents of that section have been quoted as saying that even as late as the time of their fathers and mothers there was still a large population which looked upon Christmas as a minor and unimportant holiday while preparing for the great day of Thanksgiving weeks ahead. All this explains why President Jefferson (1801-09) refused to issue Thanksgiving proclamations, and why this day of turkey-eating and football playing has never, in the country generally, become the serious religious festival intended by the early Puritans.

WHAT POST WILL ADOPT HER?

Little French Orphan Whose Father Was Killed in Defending Verdun From the Boche.

Little Denise Sellier is now ten years old. She was six when her father was killed defending Verdun from the boche. Denise once was the adopted daughter of the American civilian employees of the Central Printing plant, at 17 Rue de l'Aqueduc, Paris. Now the Americans have gone home and Denise and her invalid mother, her little brother and aged grandmother find it very hard to make ends meet.

Many posts of the American Legion already have followed the suggestion of national headquarters and have contributed $75 to care of a French orphan for a year. Perhaps some of the former foster-fathers of Denise, now members of a Legion post, may see this and readopt her. Any Legion post

WOMAN WORKER IS HONORED

Miss Pauline Curnick of Indianapolis Is Selected Executive Secretary of Women's Auxiliary.

In accordance with the free-rein policy of the American Legion in regard to the women's auxiliary, Miss Pauline Curnick of Indianapolis has been appointed executive secretary in charge of the women's organization by national headquarters of the Legion at Indianapolis.

Miss Curnick, who is the daughter of Rev. P. C. Curnick, field secretary of the Northwestern conference, Methodist Episcopal hospitals, was a leader in numerous welfare activities for the benefit of sick and disabled soldiers, sailors and marines during the war, and later served as personnel and employment director for a large eastern industrial establishment.

FRANCE, BRITAIN ARM-IN-ARM

Delegates to Convention Displayed Friendliness That Augurs Well for Future of World.

One of the most dramatic and impressive incidents of the second annual convention of The American Legion in Cleveland took place when the representatives of France and Great Britain entered the convention hall arm-in-arm and precipitated an ovation that completely disrupted the convocation for several minutes. The distinguished visitors were Gen. Marie Emile Fayolle of the French army and Admiral Sir William Lowther Grant of the British navy. Gen. Leonard Wood, who accompanied them, also received tremendous applause and was called upon for a speech.

When the cheering had subsided General Fayolle and Admiral Grant each delivered an address urging that there be no misunderstanding between this country on the one hand and France and Great Britain on the other.

"I am acquainted with the high aims of your association and with the great mission The American Legion has assumed," said General Fayolle. "It intends to keep plausibly the glorious remembrance of the dead, to help through life all those who came out of the fight for liberty, and to keep in all hearts the sacred love for our own country which is the spring of all civic virtues."

After referring to the close ties of friendship and esteem which bind America and France together, he asked:

"As long as France and America remain united who, indeed, would dare henceforth to disturb the peace of the world?"

Admiral Grant voiced a similar thought. "It strikes one as being the very acme of culpable negligence and foolishness," he said, "if we do not assist with all our power the efforts of a comparatively small number of men in our midst to create for their own purposes bad blood between us."

Discussing the problem of peace, General Wood declared that "we don't care a rap about party politics." He appealed to the Legion for a sound solution of the big national issues, foreign relations, national defense and adequate provision for the disabled men and their dependents.

TO MEMORY OF LEGIONNAIRES

Handsome Building Planned at Centralia, Where Men Fell During Armistice Day Celebration.

Funds for a memorial to be erected at Centralia, Wash., in honor of the American Legion martyrs of Armistice day, as provided for in a resolution at the second annual convention, soon will be solicited in a nation-wide campaign, according to present plans. The arrangements for the campaign are being worked out by the department of Washington, co-operating with Grant Hodge post of Centralia and the citizens of Centralia and Chehalis. More than $500,000, it is expected, will be raised for the memorial, which will take the form of a handsome building to be erected near the spot where the Legionnaires fell. A day will be designated by the department of Washington for the formal opening of the campaign in every post of the Legion.

Come and See

It is related in the New Testament that Philip, one of the earliest disciples of Christ, went to a friend, Nathaniel by name, and said, "We have found Him of whom Moses in the Law and the Prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph." Now both the Law and the Prophets had foretold that the Messiah who was to come should descend from David, and be born at Bethlehem. Nathaniel perfectly understood this, and therefore put no faith in Philip's statement. With no attempt to explain its seeming discrepancy from all he had been taught to believe, with no inquiry whether Jesus of Nazareth might not have been born at Bethlehem, and the reputed son of Joseph be of the real lineage of David, he embodies his sceptical objections in the scornful reply, "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?" Philip makes no reply to the objection by way of formal argument, but simply invites Nathaniel to come and see for himself. His words, in substance, were: "This is all true which I tell you. Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph, is the Messiah, and, if you will but come and see Him as I have done, and know Him as I do, your doubts will disappear, and your faith will be as firm as mine. Nathaniel consents. He goes. He finds Jesus. He hears His words. He becomes acquainted with His character. His examination satisfies him and he believes. "Rabbi," he exclaims, "thou art the Son of David, thou art the King of Israel."

I have related this incident to cause it very briefly to set forth the invitation that will be brought to you in the coming future by the men and women of our Sunday schools. You will be invited to "Come and see" for yourself how great things the Lord has done for those who have given Him a chance in their lives. You will be invited to come and hear and study His word. If you are inclined to be sceptical, as Nathaniel did, come see for yourself, and we believe that you will go away as Nathaniel did, believing.

This survey will be made on Sunday, December 12th, and you are asked to co-operate in this great movement. Treat those who call carelessly. Give them the desired information, gladly. Accept the invitation they extend to you and be a "Nathaniel."

"Scribe"

The funeral services of Mrs. Bettie Houser will be held at the home of her son John Houser on Eighth street Saturday at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made at Unionville on Sunday morning.

Mrs. F. L. Kennard received the sad news yesterday of the death of her brother Chester Burley at Philadelphia. The remains will be brought to Tyrone for burial.

NOTICE

The Junior Auxiliary of the Clearfield hospital will meet at the Campaign Headquarters on Second street Monday, December 6 at 3 o'clock.

OUCHI LAME BACK

Rub Backache, Lumbago, Soreness and Stiffness Away—Try This!

Back hurt you? Can't straighten feet? Suddenly feel stiff and sore? Sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Linger up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 5THE GROWTH OF THE KINGDOM.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 13:24-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—Fret not thyself because of evil-doers.—Ps. 37:1.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Gal. 6:6-10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Story About Good Seed and Bad Seed.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of the Wheat and the Tares.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Wheat and Tares.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How the Kingdom of Heaven Grows.

The parables of this chapter set forth in a graphic way the condition of affairs in the interval between Christ's going away and His coming again.

I. The Parable of the Wheat and Tares (vv. 24-30, cf. 36-43).

1. The Sowers. (1) The Son of Man (v. 37). He is the One who sows the good seed. The field in which they are sown is the world. (2) The Devil (v. 30). He is in a peculiar sense Christ's enemy. He intensely hates Him, and with relentless energy is striving to defeat His purpose in saving men. While men slumber, he sows tares among the wheat.

2. The growing crops. They are not easily distinguished while growing, but the effects produced when eaten are quite different. The wheat is wholesome, but the tares produce illness. The chief danger in the tares lies in their resemblance to wheat. The chief danger of the devil is that he strives to imitate God.

3. The harvest. There comes a time when the fruitage of the growing crops shall be gathered. For the tares there is a furnace of fire where there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. The righteous shall be gathered into the Lord's garner and shall shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of the Father.

II. The Parable of the Mustard Seed (vv. 31, 32).

1. Its important beginning. It begins as the least of all seeds and grows to be the greatest among herbs. The parentage and humble circumstances of the King greatly perplexed the people. That twelve unlettered fishermen should be selected as His royal advisers is still more amazing. The prophet said concerning Him that He should be despised, rejected, forsaken.

2. Its vigorous growth. From very small beginnings the influence of the Christ has gone forth so that there is no power or influence so great as that of Christianity.

3. Its lodging capacity. The birds which find lodgment in the tree do not represent the children of men which find safety and salvation in the church. Birds constitute no part of the tree. The bird is something foreign to and independent of the tree. The branches increase the growth of the tree, but birds are injurious and burdensome to it. They are predatory—waiting to pluck the tender buds or to prey upon the ripened fruit. The effect of such lodging is evil, blighting and spoiling to the tree.

III. The Parable of the Leavened Meal (v. 33).

1. The meal. Meal has a wholesome and nutritious effect. It was used in one of the sweet-savor offerings, which typified Christ (Lev. 2:1-3, R. V.); it was food for the priests (Lev. 6:15-17, R. V.); Abraham had Sarah knead a cake out of three measures of meal for her maid, Hagar (Gen. 18:6); and Elijah was fed upon a cake made of meal (II Kings 4:41); Elshah used meal as an antidote for the poison of death in "he not" (II Kings 4:38-41).

2. The woman. The woman is not the head of the home, but its administrator. Her responsibility is to take the bread provided by the head, prepare and distribute it to the children. In Scripture we find false doctrine being taught by a woman (Rev. 2:20). Dealing with doctrine is forbidden to woman (I Tim. 2:12). In I Tim. 4:1-3, II Tim. 2:17, 18; 4:3, 4; II Pet. 2:1-3, we find that apostasy will be brought in through false teachings within the ranks of God's people. The meaning, then, of the parable is that the true doctrine, the meal given for the nourishment of the children of the kingdom (II Pet. 2:2; I Tim. 4:3), would officially be corrupted by false doctrine. The children's food is corrupted by the mother.

3. The leaven. In Scripture, leaven is invariably a type of evil. Let the following examples suffice as proof: (1) All through the Old Testament leaven is a continual and unvarying type of evil (Ex. 12:15; Lev. 2:11). (2) Jesus himself makes leaven to denote sin (Matt. 16:5, 12; Mark 8:15). (3) Paul uses leaven in its usual biblical sense (I Cor. 5:6-8; Gal. 5:8, 9).

Nothing Too Little.

Our Lord teaches that nothing is too little to be ordered by our Father, nothing too little in which to see His hand, nothing which touches our souls too little to accept from Him. Nothing too little to be done for Him. Since the hairs of our head are all numbered, so is every throb or shoot of pain, every beating or aching of the heart. Every tear which starts is seen, and if wept to Him is gathered up to Him. Every secret wish and prayer He hears while yet unuttered or unformed.—Dr. Pusey.

Where the Speed Is.
When it comes to automobile parties, a machine is only as fast as the people in it.—The Sun-Dial.

Beautiful Literary Passages.
There are passages in Milton, Shakespeare and Wordsworth in which the mere cadence of the words is by itself delicious to a delicate ear, though we cannot tell how and why. We are conscious of a strange, dreamy sense of enjoyment, such as one feels when listening in the "light-time to the patter of rain upon the roof, or when lying upon the grass in a June evening, while a brook tinkles over the stones among the sedges and reeds.—From "Literary Style," by William Matthews.

New Light on History.
"Lord" is slang for hunchback and dates back to the reign of Richard III, when several subjects afflicted with the royal deformity were created peers. This story is a graceful commentary on the character of the hunchbacked king and lightens the sinister figure of the stage.

Their Little Wags.
The world owes every man a living but too many think the world should deliver the goods.—Buffalo Enquirer.

Run on its Reputation.
A San Francisco man went to sleep in his automobile early one morning recently and when he woke up his machine had gone two miles from the last landmark which he remembered. The machine stuck to the road and behaved very properly during the chauffeur's nap.

Blessed Quality of Mercy.
"Blessed are the merciful; for they shall obtain mercy." Does not that refer to one's mental judgments as well as to one's outward acts, to the spirit with which we view our neighbors as well as to our conduct toward them?

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

The body of Mr. Best Tillotson, who died in a Williamsport hospital from an operation for appendicitis, will be brought to Curwensville and buried in Oak Hill cemetery on Saturday afternoon. Rev. J. C. Collins will have charge of the religious services. Her maiden name was Daisy Thompson.

Samuel Cruikshank brought in the first deer yesterday. It was a fine spike buck. It is said that both the Kelly and Bickford camps were each successful in getting one. Some half dozen fellows camping near Bloom's Run in a tent; are credited with having secured four deer so far, while a young man named Bloom, residing not far from town brought one down.

It thrills one's blood to hear such old hunters as Enos Bloom, Ira Shaffer, Dad Hoover and Harrison Bloom tell about hunting deer on the barrens in years gone by and at a time when one was not limited to time and number. In those times the hunter did not have to travel a hundred miles ere he caught sight of game, and in numerous cases the gunner would only be gone from camp a few hours until he had downed a deer. While the above mentioned men are well up in years, they enjoy the hunt (all except Hoover) as well today as fifty years ago, and are making calculations to spend a few days on the mountains this season, if the weather does not prove too bad, and perhaps can show some of the younger hunters some "tricks of the deer hunting trade" yet. These men have killed some bear in their time also.

The jitney busses between this place and Clearfield will resume operation again after not running for several weeks. It will be a great convenience to Curwensville people who wish to visit the county seat.

A little son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bloom is ill at their home on corner of Meadow and Thompson streets.

Tannery men cannot complain of the high price of hides, the same having dropped to 5 and 6 cents per pound. A month ago the hide people were asking from 20 to 35 cents per pound.

Miss Mary Wolf is installed in the office of the Wiley Coal Company as bookkeeper. Miss Mary Wright is helping out through the holiday season at the William Gates hardware store.

Curwensville people who took shares of the Penn Public Service company a few months ago, received checks yesterday for their first three month's dividends or interest, amounting to 7 per cent. on amount invested.

George C. Fleming was confined to his home several days this week by an attack of sore throat and rheumatism.

Owing to increase of business the employees at the post office are compelled to work a good many extra hours. Christmas, good, going and coming is the cause.

James Spackman passed away at his home in Lawrence township on Thursday, December 2, 1920, at the age of 78 years, 11 months, 22 days. Funeral services will be held at his late home Monday at 2 p. m. Interment in Oak Hill.

Ivan Litten brought the first deer of the season to Blue Ball on the 9 o'clock train this morning.

Blair Carr, of Blue Ball, left yesterday for Dry Hollow camp to spend a few days hunting.

Mrs. Blair and Mrs. Ivan Litten, of Blue Ball, are visiting with friends in Clearfield.

A Touch of Witchery.
Witchery is always a mystifying game to play. One of the players leaves the room, agreeing to tell who of the company holds his right hand high over the head while he is out of the room. When he returns all hands are extended to him and he can detect at a glance the hand he seeks because the blood has left it, leaving it whiter than the others.—Exchange.

Easter Island.
Easter Island is in Polynesia, and was so named because it was discovered on Easter day, April 6, 1722, by a man named Roggeveen. The inhabitants have no name for it. It has been an unorganized dependency of Chile since 1888.

SHE LIVED NEARLY 2 YEARS ON CRACKERS

Altoona Woman Tells of Her Remarkable Recovery From Stomach Trouble by Taking Tanlac—Eats Anything Now

"Another splendid endorsement for Tanlac that will be read with interest by thousands of Pennsylvania people was given the other day by Mrs. Wm. M. Morgan, a highly esteemed resident of 610 Eighth street, Altoona, Pa.

"Some wonderful things happen in the world," said Mrs. Morgan, "and the way Tanlac has restored my health and built me up is one of them. At the time I began taking it I was almost an invalid, spending most of my time either in bed or in my chair, but it has built me up to where I have actually gained thirty pounds in weight, and if I live to be a hundred years old I will always have something good to say for Tanlac."

"For a year and nine months I lived on nothing scarcely but crackers. Really I dreaded to eat at all, for always after meals something pressed against my heart and caused intense pains with violent palpitation and shortness of breath. I shook like a leaf from nervousness and had terrible pains in my back. I was right on the verge of nervous prostration and became completely discouraged, thinking I would never see another well day.

"A friend told me of how much good Tanlac had done her, and I began taking it. The first few doses helped me, and I soon got so I could eat without suffering, and now I can eat just anything I please and never feel a touch of indigestion. All of my pains are gone, my nerves are steady as a clock and I can get around as well as I could when a girl. In fact, I feel like a different person altogether. For people who suffer as I did there is no medicine to compare with Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all leading druggists everywhere.

"Born Dunc" Made Good.

A "born dunc" was Carolus Linnaeus, the Swedish naturalist. Born in Rastatt in Simoland, Sweden, what little chance he had to life as a boy he threw away. "Unhandy at everything; even unfit for the pulpit," later wrote his critics. Yet in the fields alone where he was commanded to work he studied botany in a crude way, and seven years later was joyfully hailed as the greatest botanist of his age.

Pleasing the Maid.

"George," said the hostess to her husband, "will you ring the bell and tell the social secretary to serve lunch?" Then she answered the look of surprise on the faces of her guests. "I really keep her by calling her that, you know. It pleases her, and after all she does do the lettuce."

Wild Ducks Bred in Captivity.

Four species of existing wild ducks are easily domesticated. These are the mallard, the black mallard (a distinct species), the wood duck and the blue winged teal. The green winged teal and the canvasback (believed to be a hybrid) have been bred since early in captivity.

Cultural Offer for Damages.

The victim is rarely go to the rescue. The search for amusement and variety contain food for the writer in London. For example, can you imagine a rich man case in which a young man successfully sued for damages a company that had had the audacity to name one of its boats after his beauty without asking her permission?

The Key.

A capacity and taste for reading comes access to whatever has already been covered by others. It is the key to the keys to the already solved problems. And it is only so; it gives a relish and facility for successfully pursuing the unsolved ones.—Abraham Lincoln.

Idea of Sauter Lamp is Old.

The open form or sauter lamp is thought to be of Semite origin. The Greeks and Romans developed this form carefully and in time it was a covered lamp, except for a small air hole with figures on top and much carving. It became, indeed, an excellent and handsome ornament.

Van Garen's Attar of Roses.

The attar of roses which was presented Martin Van Buren when he was President and which was for a time an exhibit in the patent office was stolen within a few years of being placed there. The exact date of the theft is not known, but it was probably between 1850 and 1860.

USE SUNFLOWER FOR SILAGE

When Grown With Corn Yield Was Considerably Increased—Feed Value Not Impaired.

Considerable interest has developed in the past two or three years in sunflowers as a silage crop. A number of farmers in Michigan have grown sunflowers with corn says the quarterly bulletin of the Michigan Agricultural college. They claim that the yield was considerably increased and the feeding value was not impaired. Most of them, however, said they preferred that sunflowers should not take up more than one-third of the silage material.

The work of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society and its local branches together with the Christmas Seal Sale, which is the chief source of funds for those organizations, has been endorsed by a number of organizations in their state conventions. Some of the resolutions follow:

The American Legion.
The American Legion of Pennsylvania in caucus at Allentown, June 18, 1920, notes with great satisfaction that, with 10,253 deaths in Pennsylvania in 1919 from all forms of tuberculosis, which number is 2332 less than in 1918, progress is being made in the fight against tuberculosis; therefore, Be it resolved, That the Legion commend its members for their very active part in the Christmas Seal Sale last year; and, Be it further resolved, That we reaffirm our commendation of the work of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society and its affiliated local organizations, and suggest that Legion members, as far as possible, aid in the 1920 Seal Sale through which most of the money will be raised for next year's fight against this white scourge.

The P. O. S. of A.
Declaring its belief that next to patriotism the public health is one of the most vital factors in the life of the American people, the Patriotic Order Sons of America in the Pennsylvania convention in Harrisburg, August 28, 1920, commends the work of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society and urges its full support by members of this organization. Although tuberculosis took 2,449 fewer lives in Pennsylvania in 1919 than in 1918 (the total number of deaths from the White Plague being 10,253), there is still an urgent need that a greater effort be made to lessen the ravages of the White Plague; therefore, Be it resolved, That the Pennsylvania Patriotic Order Sons of America urge its members to support the Christmas Seal Sale of 1920 through which most of the money is raised for the citizen fight against tuberculosis.

The State Firemen.
Our duties to our communities as firemen is to extinguish fires and save persons imperiled by them. A human conflagration that consumes more than 10,000 lives annually in Pennsylvania has been checked only slightly after many years' fight and this sweep of tuberculosis, a preventable disease, causes a flame of suffering, misery and death that touches nearly every family and most persons; therefore, Be it resolved, That the Firemen's Association of Pennsylvania in 1920 convention at Allentown, commends those agencies fighting tuberculosis and especially the efforts of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society and its affiliated local organizations toward prevention; therefore, Be it further resolved, That we commend our members for their support of the 1919 Christmas Seal Sale and urge their assistance to this fall's Seal Sale as one of the best ways to support the citizen fight against this preventable scourge.

Federation of Women.
As newly enfranchised citizens of Pennsylvania we recognize the vital importance of the health of our children as touching the well being of the coming generation. The recent revelation that there are at least 80,000 children in the schools of Pennsylvania with tuberculosis is cause for pause and action. No greater work to lessen tuberculosis can be done than that among children; therefore, Be it resolved in the Federation of Pennsylvania Women in annual session at Harrisburg, October 1, 1920, that we heartily commend the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society and its affiliated local committees for their emphasis in the past few years upon health work in the schools, which finds chief expression in the Modern Health Crusade; therefore, Be it further resolved, That we most strongly urge our members and all citizens to give the greatest possible support to the 1920 Seal Sale of Christmas Seals and Health Bonds, which provides most of the money for the recognized citizen organizations which are fighting tuberculosis in co-operation with official state agencies.

SANTA CLAUS AND THE CHILDREN'S SEAL

Bright Little Sticker For Mail Means Much to the Boys and Girls.

Santa Claus and a child appear on the Christmas Seal this year.

Santa is bringing health for children. The child pictured is so happy he is getting the great gift of health that he has perched himself on Santa's shoulders and is holding aloft the double barred cross, which is the emblem of hope used by tuberculosis workers.

The mission of the little sticker is just what the picture on it this year signifies. The salvation of the child and Santa's "Happy New Year" in horse out through the work done with the money realized from the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals.

"The Tuberculosis committee covering a community retains over three-fourths of the money it realizes from the Seal sale for carrying on the fight against tuberculosis and the improvement of the public health," said Clifford Fingert, chairman of the State Seal Committee. "One of the important things being done by these committees is the health work among children, and especially in the schools. If we teach children better habits and hygiene they will grow up much healthier and tuberculosis will be materially lessened."

"Every Christmas Seal sold means better health for children of your community."

HOW SEAL FUNDS ARE BEING USED

Christmas Seals and Health Bonds furnish most of the funds for the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society and 500 local affiliated organizations. They employ fifty nurses, health educators and other workers.

These workers assist the sick and handicapped; focus on the nature, treatment and prevention of tuberculosis.

Specifically they:

- Put the Modern Health Crusade in the schools.
- Conduct health surveys for discovering cases of tuberculosis.
- Give health motion picture films.
- Give health demonstrations at fairs, carnivals, other occasions, using "Health Charts," "Picture Man" and "Picture Woman."
- Give publicity in newspapers.
- Distribute literature and display boards.
- Organize "Health Days," "Fit Campaigns," "Clean-up Weeks," "Health Weeks."
- Provide speakers on health topics for a variety of institutions, granges, medical societies, etc.
- Give tuberculosis exhibits.
- Promote open-air and open window systems with medical examination of school children and in follow-up care.
- Join with other agencies in maintenance of health centers, baby clinics and child welfare stations.
- Provide relief where necessary.
- Help to secure hospital provision for advanced cases of tuberculosis.
- Help to provide for those having tuberculosis to go to sanatoria.

WHAT WILL YOU DO ABOUT THESE FACTS?

Tuberculosis is taking a terrible toll in Pennsylvania every day. What are you going to do about these facts:

- In 1919, 10,222 persons were killed in Pennsylvania by tuberculosis—a record.
- Each year 24 persons succumb to the White Plague every day, or one an hour.
- For every death from tuberculosis in your community there are from 10 to 15 living cases.
- In the schools of Pennsylvania 75 per cent of all the children have clinical tuberculosis.
- Five per cent of all the school children in Pennsylvania have tuberculosis.

Christmas Seal Sale Begins Nov. 22.

The Christmas Seal is an appeal to you by your community for your community.

The Christmas Seal Sale is conducted by your local tuberculosis committee for the benefit of your own community.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

The Tuberculosis Christmas Seal, as shown in America, was first sold in 1908.

The Seal is a little sticker placed on letters and packages during the month before Christmas and over the holidays.

Christmas Seals cannot be used as postage.

Seals sell for one cent each.

More than three-fourths of the money raised by your tuberculosis committee from Seals and Health Bonds remains to fight tuberculosis and improve the health of your community.

The sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals and Health Bonds begins November 22.

Battleship Fleet as a Christmas Present

By A. NIELY HALL

Make a fleet of toy battleships like the model in Fig. 1. It will not take long, because I have designed a model made of parts that can be cut out and assembled quickly. Having built the fleet, you will have lots of fun. Because the model is mounted on wheels, you can run it upon land as well as sail it upon water.

In Fig. 2 is a drawing of every part of the toy battleship, and in Figs. 3 to 8 you will find the same parts drawn to scale with dimensions marked upon them. If you build several ships, I would suggest that you make all of the parts for one boat, first, and then, using these for patterns, mark out and cut the hull (A) for all the other boats, then the decks (B), then the masts (C), and so on. The work of cutting and assembling will be simplified if you follow this method. A piece of soft pine, cypress, or other soft wood will be easiest to shape. In marking out the hull, draw a centerline as shown in Fig. 3, and lay off the measurements either side of it, to get the sides alike. The upper deck (B, Fig. 4) extends three-quarters of the length of the hull, and it is of the same shape as that portion of the hull; therefore it can be marked out with the hull as a pattern. The holes shown along the edge of the deck (Fig. 4) are made to receive the guns of the secondary battery; the holes along the upper face are made to receive the masts, funnels, etc. The position of each part is indicated in Fig. 2.

The masts (C, Fig. 5) can be whittled or dowel-sticks of the given diameter can be used. The fighting-top (D and E, Fig. 5) are wooden button molds. The larger one (D) must have its hole enlarged so it will slip over the mast, the smaller one (E) rests on top of the mast and is held in place with the nail F (Fig. 2) driven into the mast-top.

Fig. 6 shows a funnel (G). Use a dowel-stick if you can get one, otherwise whittle a stick to the given diameter. Bore out the top of each funnel if you wish.

There are two gun turrets (K, Fig. 2) and the size is shown in Fig. 8. Whittle the guns (L) of the shape and size shown in Fig. 8, and glue their ends in holes made in the sides of the turrets. Drill a small hole through the center of each turret through which to drive nail pivot M (Fig. 2). The secondary battery guns (N, Fig. 2) are the ends of burnt matches. Fig. 8 shows the length.

Cut the forecastle blocks H and I (Fig. 2) square, of the dimensions given in Fig. 7, nail them together, and fasten to the deck with the peg J (Fig. 2).

The spool wheels (P, Fig. 2) have stick axles (Q) cut to fit snugly in their holes, and the axle ends are supported by screw-eyes R, which are screwed into the hull. Start holes for the screw-eyes with an awl, screw the screw-eyes into the holes, and then drive the axles through the screw-eyes and spools.

The wireless telegraph aerial is suspended between the mast tops (Fig. 2). Use toothpicks for spreaders S, thread for wire strands T and end loops U.

When the toy battleships have been assembled, give them a coat of paint.

SCHOOL PUPILS HEAR GOSPEL OF GOOD HEALTH

The school pupils of Clearfield are hearing the gospel of tuberculosis prevention today through visitation of nurses and physicians to all the schools who tell them of the simple rules to observe to prevent their taking the disease or transmitting it to others. The pupils of Junior High heard the talks early this morning, as did many of the ward schools. At chapel exercises this morning the pupils of the High school heard a fifteen minute address by Dr. Frank High. The doctor told the pupils of the many common mistakes made by those infected with tuberculosis. He impressed upon them the importance of right posture, correct habits and fresh air. His remarks were listened to with the best attention and the pupils gave approval to them with prolonged applause. The pupils are going to buy Red Cross seals and Health bonds liberally.

CONDITIONS ARE BETTER IN IRELAND

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The bodies of the 15 police slain by Sinn Feiners at Maroon were brought here today for military burial. Most of the victims were war veterans. DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

THE ELVES TRIP.

"Let's take a trip," said Fly-High, the bird of the Elves.

"Let us just take a trip through the beautiful world," said Fly-High. "I've seen so many lovely things lately that I would like all the Elves to see, too. And it might be nice if we invited some of the fairies and the brownies to come along, too, and some of your other friends. I feel as though I could carry so many people and, too, many of the brownies and fairies could bring along their magic wings and caps so that they could fly from place to place and jump from place to place quickly."

"We'll tell everyone we're going to take a trip," said the Elves. "It's a fine suggestion, Fly-High."

"Just say," Fly-High explained, "that it is to be a trip of beauty. We're going to see so many beautiful things and not any one special thing."

"We'll do that," said the Elves. The very same morning they started, for the Brownies helped carry the messages about and many of the friends of the Elves came on the trip that Fly-High had suggested they should take.

They started off and as they went along Fly-High would turn around and explain what everything was in case some of them didn't notice and, as he said, they were going to see so many things and each of them so worth seeing, that he would make sure no one missed a thing.

First they flew into a garden where white feathery valerian flowers were sending their fragrant messages of love and happiness all through the garden. Next they went along a railway track.

"You will wonder why I am bringing you along here," said Fly-High. "For it seems so ugly. But in a moment you will see."

And soon they came upon some lovely columbines, of many different colors which made the whole of the dull, drab looking railway look gorgeous and brilliant and beautiful.

"Lovely, eh?" said Fly-High, "and where you would least expect beauty, too. And now we will take a short cut down into a creek known as Red creek where in the autumn all the flowers and all the bushes and all the berries and the shrubs and the trees seem to blend together into a lovely autumnal red color.

Along the Banks.

"Now we can see along the banks on either side so many beautiful ferns, and in the rippling creek over the rocks and the stones the sun will play and dance so that we will see the jewels he can make at a moment's notice with the aid of his partners, the Sun Fairies."

"And now that we have seen that we will fly up the side of the second hill beyond where there is a cave, from the top of which we can get a view of a large lake lying below, all blue and shimmering and bright."

"There are ferns all along the path leading up to the cave and we must look at them, for they are so beautiful. Sometimes under the cool rocks snakes are having naps, but we do not mind them. Not one would harm us! They are not of the harmful kind."

So they went along and saw all the lovely ferns and flowers in passing and from the top of the cave they saw the lake below, all blue and shimmering and dancing with the sun's rays. Above there was a perfect fluffy white cloud.

"Now we will go down to the water's edge," said Fly-High, "and we will see Pirate Springs, where the water runs down over the rocks through moss and through low evergreen roots, right to the lake below."

They saw children barefooted wading along by the edge of the water paddling in the cool lake from time to time and playing with the reddish water weeds growing in the lake.

There, too, was a birch tree and a pine tree standing side by side. They were bending over the lake and talking to the water and telling it secrets of the air.

There were pink morning glories which were growing wild, and a Mr. and Mrs. Snipe with their long tails and their long beaks were dancing about on the shore, waving their tails back and forth.

For a long and beautiful trip did they go and everyone told Fly-High how much they loved going from spot to spot and seeing how many beautiful things there were to see and to enjoy, quite free of charge!

LESSONS IN OPTICS

HARRY E. BARNUM, O. D.
Woodbine Building, Clearfield, Pa.

LESSON TWENTY-ONE

People around 40 years of age ought to begin to consider the advisability of consulting an optician. Yes, especially if they are over 40 or do much near eye work of any kind.

What happens, if they neglect to do so?

Eyes strain is produced. What should be kept in mind regarding the eyes?

They should be kept as a most valued possession, and they should receive the care which their importance demands. They should get as much rest as possible, and it should be remembered that it is IMPOSSIBLE to rest the eyes under many conditions except by wearing glasses. And when glasses are found to be necessary, they should be secured at once.
